

Cosmo welcomes the launches of Winlevi® in Austria and Germany

Dublin, Ireland and Heppenheim, Germany – June 15, 2026: Cosmo N.V. (SIX: COPN, XETRA: C43) ("Cosmo") is pleased to announce the launch of its innovative acne cream Winlevi® (clascoterone 1% cream) in Austria and Germany by its commercial partner InfectoPharm Arzneimittel und Consilium GmbH ("InfectoPharm"). Winlevi® is available in both countries since June 1. Cosmo is the exclusive manufacturer of the product.

Formal regulatory approval for Winlevi® in the EU was granted by the European Commission in October 2025. Since then, Cosmo has been working at full speed with its commercial partners to prepare for launch of the compound across 20 European markets.

Winlevi® is the first topical acne therapy in more than 40 years with a first-in-class mechanism of action. Its active ingredient, clascoterone, is the first commercially available topical androgen-receptor inhibitor acting locally in the sebaceous glands to reduce sebum production and inflammation without systemic anti-androgen effects, supporting safe use in both males and females.

Giovanni Di Napoli, CEO of Cosmo, commented: "Our valued partners are in full swing with the launch of Winlevi® in various European markets. We are delighted with the success of the launches in Austria and Germany by InfectoPharm. Our innovative acne treatment is now available to an even greater number of patients."

Phillipp Zöller, CEO of InfectoPharm, added: "With clascoterone, we are finally closing a long-standing therapeutic gap in acne treatment by offering dermatologists a precise and well tolerated targeted therapy. We are delighted that, as a partner of Cosmo, we will also be launching Winlevi® in Italy in September."

As per today, Winlevi® has already been approved in the United States, Canada, Australia, the United Kingdom, New Zealand, Jordan, Singapore, Malaysia, Philippines, Brazil, Mexico, South Korea, Kuwait, Egypt, Oman, and the European Union. Additional registrations are being processed as Cosmo and its partners continue to increase the global commercial availability of this innovative acne treatment.
